Here's what we know:

- ☐ The Secretary of the Interior is in Southern Utah this week on a listening tour regarding Bears Ears and GSENM. This is part of the review of National Monuments directed by President Trump's Executive Order 13792.
- ☐ The Secretary's scheduled four-day visit to Utah, which began Sunday, was coordinated by DOI with the Governor's Office. We have no specific details of the Secretary's itinerary.
- ☐ Currently, there are no plans for the Secretary to stop at any BLM office or visitor center.
- ☐ GSENM management has been asked to provide background information about the Monument for the Secretary.
- ☐ The review is not about the work we have or have not done. These reviews have occurred under previous administrations.
- ☐ Ride for the Brand -- while at work, we are expected to represent the agency, not our personal views.
- ☐ If you are getting questions that management can help answer, let us know.
- ☐ As more information becomes available, we will share it with staff.
